Many old soldiers now feel the effects of the hard service they endured during the war. Mr. Geo. S. Anderson, of Roseville, York county, Penn., who saw the hardest kind of service at the front, is now frequently troubled with rheumatism. "I had a severe attack lately," he says, "and procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It did me so much good that I would like to know what you would charge me for one dozen bottles." Mr. Anderson wanted it both for his own use and to supply it to his friends and neighbors, as every family should have a bottle of it in their home, not only for rheumatism, but lame back, sprains, swellings, cuts, bruises, and burns, for which it is unequalled. For sale by Cooper Drug Co.

ALBERT CURLESS.

Columbus surely has a couple of joints. A couple of fellows were arrested there the other day for selling intoxicating liquors and convicted of maintaining nuisances. The fine in each case was $25 and costs. When the fine in a Kansas town for maintaining a nuisance is less than a hundred dollars you can bet that the culprit will be fined again in about 30 days. Poor old Columbus.

A suit affecting all the large lumber firms doing business in the state of Kansas was brought in Cherokee county, Kan., last Saturday. Action was brought to dissolve the Lumberman's Exchange, an organization composed of all the large firms, which have in effect a mutual fire insurance association. Before this exchange was in existence, the lumber dealers were compelled to insure in the old line fire insurance companies. Some time ago the larger firms organized a mutual insurance company, thereby saving about $70,000 per year that had formerly been paid out in premiums to the regular insurance companies. The suit was brought on the ground that the Lumbermen's Exchange is an insurance society that is not licensed to transact insurance business in the state. The suit was brought in the district court of Cherokee county by the mayor of Galena and against the firm of Williams & Robeson, the largest lumber dealers in Southeastern Kansas. It is the intention of the interested parties to make the suit a test case and the final decision will be awaited with interest by all the lumbermen in Kansas. The milling men and implement dealers have organizations for mutual benefit formed on a plan similar to the Lumbermen's Exchange. The law firm of Boyle & Dillard, of this city, represent the defendants. L. C. Boyle, the senior member of the firm, was attorney general of Kansas during Governor Leedy's administration, but has recently removed to Kansas City.—Kansas City Journal.

TOPEKA BARBERS AT WAR.

TOPEKA, May 23.—War has broken out among the tonsorial artists of North Topeka, and as a result they are cutting hair for nothing today. A new barber struck town a few days ago and cut the union's prices. This made the union shops mad and they went the new barber one better. He saw their ante and went them one better. Last night the union shops were cutting hair for 5 cents. This morning the new barber stuck out a sign that he would cut hair for nothing. The union shops met the cut. They all did a land office business today. People that had not had their hair cut for a year took advantage of the bargain day prices and had work done.

An effort is being made by the South Topeka barbers to settle the matter. It is injuring their business. If the rate war keeps up much longer Topeka men will present a better appearance. Senator Peffer has not yet joined the throng of bargain hunters.

KILLING AT JOPLIN.

A desperate encounter occurred on Main street about 1 o'clock Sunday in which five shots were fired and A. J. Woods, a colored barber, was killed. All of the shooting is charged to DeWitt C. Leonard, a well known miner, known as "Kid" Leonard. The shooting occurred in the stairway of the Murphy-Guengerich building, and a large crowd was present at the time. There were a number of conflicting stories told on the street regarding the shooting and during the afternoon excited groups discussed the matter on the street corners says the Joplin News.

Woods was shot three times. It is claimed that the first shot went through the left shoulder, the second through the right leg above the knee, while the third entered the region of the heart and ranged downward, coming out at the lower part of the back. Five shots were fired in all and several bystanders received scratches from stray bullets. Mont Jones was shot in the heel and a young man named McCullough received a grazing wound on the knee. The lower edge of the coat worn by George Sullivan was torn off by a stray bullet.

The gun that did the work was a 45-calibre Colt's belonging to Policeman King, which the officer claims was jerked from his grasp in a scuffle when he attempted to arrest Leonard. The trouble originated over a woman, Woods' wife.

The evidence submitted at the coroner's inquest shows that Leonard, Joe Reubart, George Gonder and one or two others were walking north on Main street. Arriving at Woods' shop between Second and Third streets they met Mr. Woods and Mrs. Aaron Fuller who had just returned from church. They were standing on the edge of the sidewalk when Leonard and companions came along. Leonard said something to the women and Mrs. Woods, it is claimed, struck him. He knocked her into the gutter and went on up the street. Woods was in his barber shop, and when he heard his wife calling him he rushed out to see what was the matter. His wife told him that a man had struck her, and he went after his gun. Coming out he asked which one struck her. Leonard, Reubart and the others were going up the street and Woods started after them. His wife told him that the one with the white hat and wearing a red rose was the party who struck her.

It so happened that three of the party wore white hats. Joe Reubart was the first one reached by Woods and he gave vent to his wrath on him by knocking him down. By this time quite a large crowd had gathered and some one told Woods that it was the other man. Gonder was the next knocked down then Woods went up to Leonard. By this time the crowd had reached the Murphy-Guengerich building. A crowd of several hundred people had flocked around the belligerents and officers King and McQueen had arrived on the scene. Straight account of the difficulty at this stage was difficult to obtain. But it seems that Leonard started up the stairway after snatching Policeman King's gun. The darkey started after him when Leonard opened fire. In all five shots were fired and the darkey rolled onto the sidewalk quite dead.

Brave Men Fall Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Idaville, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down, and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me new strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 50c, at A. R. Kane's drug store. Every bottle guaranteed.

STOPPED A MAIL TRAIN.

John Pearson, a well-to-do farmer, living near Stark, Kan., was put in jail by the federal authorities, charged with obstructing the mails. He was hauling a load of corn to Stark and found the railroad crossing blocked by a Santa Fe freight train. He drove onto the main line and waited for the freight to move. A fast mail approached, and he refused to heed the whistle. The engineer threatened him and approached to within a few feet of his wagon, but he defied him and refused to move, claiming right of way. The fast mail was held up for a half hour until the freight was cut to permit him to pass, and the railroad company caused his arrest. He will spend his fortune defending what he claims are his rights.
